Measure 3 – a further reduction in deeming rates

The 'deeming rate' is the return that Centrelink applies to your financial assets (such as bank accounts, investments and some superannuation accounts) to determine how much income they regard you as earning. In turn this level of income can dictate your entitlement to benefits such as the age pension and is also used in the means test for the CSHC.

There are two deeming rates applied:

- The lower deeming rate is applied to the first $51,800 (for singles) and $86,200 (couples) of eligible assets owned.
- The upper deeming rate is applied to assets over the lower rate threshold.

What is the latest change?

New deeming rates will apply from 1 May 2020

	Current rate	From 1 May 2020
Lower deeming rate	1.0%	0.25%
Upper deeming rate	3.0%	2.25%

Other important information:

The government had already announced a reduction to deeming rates that was due to apply from 1 May 2020, however the above is a further reduction to the deeming rates.

What do you need to do?

Nothing is required. Centrelink will apply the reduced deeming rates from 1 May 2020 and those who are entitled will receive a higher benefit in the first payment after that date. Generally speaking those who are income tested by Centrelink will benefit.

Measure 4 – a temporary reduction in superannuation pension draw down rates

Those who are drawing a pension from their superannuation are required to draw at least a minimum amount each year. The minimum is determined by age and is calculated as a percentage of the value of the account from which the pension is being drawn as at the previous 1 July.

The minimum drawdown is being halved for the 2019/20 and 2020/21 financial years, as follows:

Age	Current rate	Reduced rate
Under 65	4%	2%
65-74	5%	2.5%
75-79	6%	3%
80-84	7%	3.5%
85-89	9%	4.5%
90-94	11%	5.5%
95+	14%	7%

Why is this happening?

As the value of many superannuation pensions will have declined in recent weeks, those who don't require as much income as the minimum level dictates are being given the option of drawing less.

This enables more funds to be retained within the superannuation system and/or reduces the potential need to sell down underlying assets to raise cash for pension payments.

How should you respond?

Superannuation pensions are flexible and can be changed from month to month as required (as long as you draw at least the minimum applicable to your account each financial year).

As we're already more than half way through the financial year, those who've been drawing a regular monthly income from their superannuation will have already met the revised minimum drawdown level and can suspend their pension completely if they wish to do so.

If you feel that you don't need as much income then please contact our office as we'll discuss the options available to you and how the change to your pension level can be implemented.

If you're currently comfortable with the level of income that you're receiving then you don't need to do anything – your pension income will continue as normal.

Alternately, if you feel that you need more income then please contact us and we can discuss how that can be implemented.

Measure 5 – temporary early release of superannuation

Generally speaking, to access your superannuation you need to have met your 'preservation age' (at least 55, but up to age 60 for those born later than July 1964) and to have also met a condition of release (such as having retired).

However, in light of the current economic environment the government is permitting those who meet the below criteria to access up to $20,000 of their superannuation.

To be eligible for early access to superannuation you must:

- Be unemployed; or
- Be a current recipient of a jobseeker, youth allowance for jobseeker, parenting payment (which includes the single and partnered payments), special benefit or farm household allowance; or
- Have been made redundant on or after 1 January 2020; or
- Have your working hours reduced by 20% or more after 1 January 2020; or
- For sole traders, have suffered business suspension or a reduction in turnover of 20% or more.

Other important information:

Those who meet one of more of the above criteria can apply to access $10,000 of their superannuation in the 2019/20 financial year (ie: before 30 June 2020) and another $10,000 in the 2020/21 financial year (ie: after 1 July 2020).

Early access benefits will be tax free and won't impact eligibility for any social security benefits.

What do you need to do to receive this payment?

Applications for the early release of superannuation need to be made to the ATO via your MyGov account - www.my.gov.au.

If approved then the ATO will contact your superannuation fund to authorise them to make the payment to you.

If you're a member of a self-managed superannuation fund (SMSF) then the ATO will directly administer the access payment. Please don't access your fund's bank account for early release without the ATO's approval – heavy penalties will continue to apply for those accessing their superannuation illegally.

If you fit into one of the above criteria then please contact our office and we'll talk through the process with you.

General information – applying for social security benefits

The government expects an uptake in applications for social security benefits as a result of the impact of COVID-19.

They've committed to waiving some of the rules that apply for eligibility including some waiting periods and some means tests.

To make the application process as efficient as possible, Centrelink is encouraging those in need to lodge their applications online. This can be done via MyGov – www.my.gov.au

If you're not able to utilise the online service then they recommend their phone service (136 240) or visit their website - <https://www.servicesaustralia.gov.au/individuals/subjects/affected-coronavirus-covid-19>.

Next Level Financial Services will be able to assist where we hold an existing Centrelink nominee authority for a client. Please contact us if you require assistance.
